WICHITA MARKETS.

Receipts of Live Stock at the Union Stock Yards during the past 24 hours-41 cattle, 1,838 hogs, Shipments-200 cattle, 304 calves and 110 hogs.

The cattle supply was again very light and very little good butchers' stuff offered Some of the buyers who wanted cattle had to go without as there was not enough to around. The few feeding steers and stockers on sale found an active market and sold at stronger prices. More good cattle of all kinds would have found ready sale at good values. The Chicago market was steady. Kansas City quoted good cows, beeves and Texas higher; bulls and common cows steady. This market closed strong and demand is active. There was a fair supply of hogs on the market and the quality was fully 214 to 5 cents better than for two days past. The market was active throughout and prices ruled very strong, bulk ranging from $5.70 to $5.72% and tops $5.77% on good packing hogs. Fred Welhener is ain on the market buying heavies for the Old Mexico trade and purchased nearly 300 today. Good, smooth, heavy hogs sell for the same as the best packing grades Pigs were a little draggy today, although there were not many on the market. $2.75 to $2.53 was the ruling price. Kansas City market closed steady. The close here was steady to strong.

Queer Foods. NEW YORK, Aug. 11.-Every week sees a lot of queer foods brought through the custom house from abroad for the benefit of foreign born citizens who retain a bankering for the delicacies of their native land. Among those the past fortnight were dried clams and oysters from the far east, looking more like pieces of carved wood than anything adible; pickled cocks' combs from France (these in glass jars made a very pretty effect, the scarlet of the meat affording a strong contrast to the green and brown of the spices used); dried white bait from Formosa, which are the smallest fishes in the world used for food (the largest are as long as a pin, while the smalle are scarcely a quarter inch in length); chieken sansages and goose liver san from Germany, put up in case and looking like anything but a delicious luxury; tons of sweet stuff from Central America. which recembles apple butter in appear ance, but is made from pineauple, banana, orange and coconnut; sugar almond cakes from Austria called matzeron, which are as close an approach to awreteted pressic acid as the law will allow, and moon cakes from China, which are poor imi-tations of old fashioned pork ples. These come in ever-increasing numbers now in order to meet the demand for the annual feast of the harvest moon, which occurs in September. Uses for Coffee. It is asserted by men of high professional ability that when the system needs a stimniant nothing equals a cup of fresh coffee. Those who desire to resous the dipsomaniac from his cups will find no better substitute for spirits than strong newly made coffee without milk or sugar. Two ounces of coffee, or one-eighth of a pound. to one pint of bolling water makes a first class beverage, but the water must be boffing, not merely hot. It is assected that malaria and epidemics are avoided by those who drink a cup of hot coffee before venturing into the morning air. Burned on hot coals coffee is a disinfectant for a sick room, and by some of the best physi-cians it is considered a specific in typhoid fever-New York Commercial Advertises Coal oil will soften boots or shoes that have been hardened by water, and render them as pliable as new. It will also remove stains from varnished furniture.

BLOWN FROM A CANNON.

THE HORRIBLE EXECUTION OF TWO MUTINOUS SEPOYS.

Reminiscence of the Early Days of England's Rule in the Indian Empire. The Method Was Substituted for Hanging Because of the Brahmin.

In the spring of 1857 I was quartered with my troop at Sealkote, in the Punjanb, within sight of the snow capped Himalayan mountains, Iring beyond the fortress of Jumrood. The garrison at Sealkote consisted of a troop of horse artillery, a battery of field artillery belonging to the East India company's service, the Flity-second foot and the Sight descend frost and the Sight descend ground the Sight descend grounds. foot and the Sixth dragoon guards of her Britannic majesty's forces, and two regiments of Sepoys.

In the early part of June the European portion of the Sealkote garrison was or-dered to join a force that had been organ-ized under the command of Brig. Gen. Chamberlain, to be called "The Punjaub Movable Column," its object being to hold in check the large force of Sepoys quartered in the Punjaub and prevent them from marching to Delhi. We joined that column at Annurkulice, the old cantonment of the Khalsa army under Runjeet Singh. There were five regiments of Sepoys and two of native cavalry then quartered there, and shortly after our arrival some Sikhs who had been enlisted in one of the Sepoy regiments gave information that the native officers were inciting the men to mutiny and to march to Delhi. An investigation was ordered, and it was found that two of the officers had deserted. They were captured by some of Houson's Guide corps and brought back to the cantonment, and Gen. Chamberlain ordered a drum head court martial to assemble for their trial. There were convicted of inciting to mutiny and desertion and sentenced to be hanged.

It was conclusively proved before the court by men from their own regiment-1135 A H HINDON, Mussulmans and Sikhs-that they had assembled the men and urged them to murder their officers and march to Delhi

FINDING OF THE COURT MARTIAL The finding and sentence of the court were approved by Gen. Chamberlain, who issued an order, the reading of which was about as follows: "The findings and sentence of the court martial, of which Lieut. Col. Campbell is president, are approved, the British government has no intention of caste, the sentence of the court is changed from that of being hung to being blown wence as modified will be carried out at sunrise to-morrow morning under the orders of the officer commanding the garrison.

The Punjaub movable column and at garrison will be parted. sunrise to see the sentence carried into effect. The officer commanding the garrison di-rected the officer commanding the artillery to detail two guns to execute the sentence, and the two right guns of my troop were detailed for that duty. The troops were paraded as directed, and formed in three sides of a hollow square, the two guns from which the culprits were to be blown being at the base of the square; on the left came the remaining four guns of the troop, the battery of field artillery, the guns being placed in echelon, so that if necessary they could aweep the right hand side of the square. Next came the Sixth Carbineers, her majesty's Fifty-second foot, and a squadron of Hodson's horse; on the right were stationed the native troops, two regiments of cavalry, and five of infantry, and as it was not known but that there might be some attempt at a rescue, the guns of the artillery were loaded, dowble shotted with grape, and the cavalry and infantry had their carbines and muskets loaded Seon was heard a band playing the "Dead March," and the procession appeared. The prisoners marched up to the front of the two guns at the base of the square, their from were struck from them, and the proceedings, findings and sentence of the court, together with the approval and change of sentence by the commanding general, were read by the interpreter of one of the native regiments, in English and Persian. The interpretor was an Eng officer, one being attached to each Sepoy regiment. THE SENTENCE CARRIED OUT. The commanding officer then gave th order to the lieutenant commanding the two guns to carry out the sentence. He directed the prisoners to place themselves with their backs to the muzzle of the guns. Standing up against each was a thin plank, about six feet long, against which they placed themselves, the guns having previously been loaded with the name! service blank charge of powder. A rope was the passed around their bodies, the gunners having been cautioned that it was to be done without in any manner touching their bodies, as to be touched by the hands of an infidel was, in their eyes, worse than death. The culpres were attended by a lot of Brobmin priests, who kept on chanting something, in which the prisoners joined until the fastening was finished, when they were told to withdraw, and the officer gave the command to light port fires, and then the command to fire. Both flashes were simultaneous, and when the smoke cleared away pothing was left but a mass of flesh and bones, unrecognizable as the remains of two human beings. A cry ran along the lines of the native troops, in Persian, "God is great!" The parade was then dismissed, the native troops marching back to their cantonments. Gen. Chamberlain was severely criticised at the time by the European press for having changed the method of execution from hanging. He was influenced to make the change by soldiers and civilian servants of the company, men who understood the native character well, and also by many prominent natives, on the ground that it was generally believed that the mutiny was brought about by an impression which seemed to prevail among the Sepoys that the government intended in some way to destroy caste prejudice. Had they been hung either some low caste native or a European soldier would have had to do it, and would necessarily have had to lay hands on the culprits. Their casts would have been destroyed, and this would have lost them all hopes of their paradise, and would have left the impression on the minds of their friends that they were irre-vocably lost.—New Orleans Times-Demo-

An extraordinary incident took place recontly at a wedding at St. Silas' Liverpool. While the party were walking from the carriages into the aburch a woman walked up to the bride and bridegroom and flung an aprouful of flods over them. She also threw a quantity deer the best man and bridesmetti, and rest eway. The unfortunate couple were consred with flour from head to loca, but after having been brushed down they entered the church, where the ceremony was performed with out further interruption.

At It Again. "Hello" exclaimed Mr. Chugwater, looking over the morning paper, "here's another tragedy in high life. "What is it?" eagerly inquired the other members of the Chugwater fam-
